

You Were Never Nothing

Have you ever felt like you're nothing?

Just another face in the crowd,
just another string of numbers in a database.
You tap, pay, scroll, and buy—
the world keeps spinning, and you're just a shadow.

But have you ever wondered—what if everything exists because of you?

Without you, platforms are nothing.
Without you, ads are never seen,
products never bought,
and profits never made.

You're not a side character.
You're the engine of the system.

You haven't become weaker—
the truth has just been hidden too long.
You're not a user.
You're meant to be an owner.

CXP isn't giving you power.
CXP is returning what has always been yours:
the value of your existence,
and the existence of your value.

From this moment on,
your life is no longer being consumed.
Every purchase, every act of participation,
is your signature written into history.

You are not traffic.

You are the flow.

Author: Ben Zhang

Website: consumerx.org